

Multi-cultural Story Treasures

This year as a result of a National Education Association Grant, your child will have the opportunity to bring home a special book from time to time to share with the family. This book should be read together, discussing with your child things about the story for example: the setting, characters, plot, problem or solution, true facts and/or what new things they learned.

Use the enclosed note pad to record any thoughts, or ideas that your child shares with you about the story.

The story treasure may be kept at home, but the book, notepad, and tote bag should be returned the next day. This will give each student in my classroom the fun experience of sharing a story at home.

Reading with your child is one of the most important skills to helping your child become an excellent reader!

Thank you,

Your child's teacher

Multi-cultural Story Treasures

This year as a result of a National Education Association Grant, your child will have the opportunity to bring home a special book from time to time to share with the family. This book should be read together, discussing with your child things about the story for example: the setting, characters, plot, problem or solution, true facts and/or what new things they learned.

Use the enclosed note pad to record any thoughts, or ideas that your child shares with you about the story.

The story treasure may be kept at home, but the book, notepad, and tote bag should be returned the next day. This will give each student in my classroom the fun experience of sharing a story at home.

Reading with your child is one of the most important skills to helping your child become an excellent reader!

Thank you,

Your child's teacher